

Web Developer

Position Summary

Inventorum is developing an innovative platform for local retailers to run their day-day business while simultaneously and effortlessly selling through multiple channels of e-commerce such as ebay, Etsy, Dawanda or their own webshop.

We are passionate about equipping small businesses with big business tools so they can better compete and be more profitable. Eventually we want to empower and encourage consumers to shop locally through easy to use search tools. Bottom line: We want small businesses to thrive and grow.

As Web Developer you will report to the CTO and be responsible for managing Inventorum's web presence and related activities. You will be playing an integral role in the company's online presence and success.

Responsibilities

- Develop and manage the Inventorum web site.
- Establish technical concept and solution for new online portals.
- Convert Photoshop screens into HTML, CSS and JavaScript.
- Optimize source code for cross browser compatibility.
- Designing future solutions as we grow.

Requirements

- Solid understanding of Computer Science fundamentals (BSc or equivalent degree would be nice).
- Minimum of 2 years experience in agile frontend development for websites and applications.
- Excellent knowledge of HTML, CSS, JavaScript and jQuery.
- Experience developing interactive (AJAX) websites.
- Good knowledge of integrating content management systems such as WordPress.
- Able to work in a team, meet deadlines and deliver high quality work.
- Passionate about creating something new in a start-up.

About Inventorum

Inventorum is everything a start-up should be. We are led by a Silicon Valley veteran and supported by a German serial entrepreneur. We care about our employees. We are creating a vision-driven killer product and are striving to make our customers happy. We work hard but respect people's lives, expect excellence and encourage personal development.

We reside in a loft in Berlin-Mitte, the new hub for start-ups in one of the best cities in the world. Its history, culture, and quality of life are well-known. Housing is still cheap here, you get a full meal for 5 Euros and for families there are great international schools and day care centers.

We are looking for men and women who are passionate, understand the urgency of start-up setting and take pride in the ownership of their tasks while functioning fully in a team setting.

For this position, Inventorum is looking forward to hearing from applicants with web development experience. Our compensation is competitive in salary and includes all the benefits of German social security. We are an equal opportunity employer and encourage anybody to apply who feels to be up to the challenge.
